Registration Deadline
midnight, Friday, May 31, 2013

What you'll want & need to know...

BioBlitz 2013 takes place on land owned, held, or with conservation easements by the Town of Narragansett, Audubon Society of RI, Narrow River Land Trust, and US Fish & Wildlife Service. Site maps, including topography, boundaries & features, are available at <http://rinhs.org/who-we-are-what-we-do/bioblitz/bioblitz-2013-narragansett/> Science Central & camping will be located at South County Museum. For driving directions Google search "115 Anne Hoxsie Lane, Narragansett, RI 02882". (Note* you MUST enter via Kingstown Road to Strathmore Road). You will be able to drive quite close to Science Central & camping to drop gear, and then proceed to parking areas.

You are responsible for bringing your own camping & field gear, reference materials, etc. RINHS has some scientific & field equipment we can lend, contact us ASAP if you are in need. The Science Central tents will provide electricity, extension cords, some lights, tables, and chairs.

Amenities included with ALL registrations:
- camping space, port-a-johns, hand washing station
- coffee & tea fixings and potable water - remember to bring along your travel mug & refillable water bottle.

Host rules and regulations for this year include:
* NO fires (other than host provided) * NO pets
Thanks in advance for respecting and adhering to them.

Lastly, everyone must be affiliated with a team even if you don't have particular expertise. Let us know about your interests and we will connect you with a team that needs help. If you are an expert in something not listed here, please let us know!

 All participants must sign a liability waiver and a media release for BioBlitz: The Movie at the time of on-site, event check in.
